MOVE THESE SCREENS

RECOMMENDED ACTION

Move these screens to the Profile tab

- ✓ Move this entire "What FRAME Knows" / athlete model flow out of Analyse.
- ✓ Relocate these screens into the Profile tab.
- ✓ Position them under a section such as "Athlete Model" or "What FRAME Knows" within Profile.
- ✓ Analyse should be reserved for actual analysis tools and outputs (for example video analysis, session analysis, reports), not the persistent athlete profile model.

Last thing — the hard facts.

Be honest about level and what's leaking. The model sharpens with every session.

RECOMMENDED REPLACEMENT

1 TOP COPY

Tell FRAME about your training.

Replace the current heading and subheading with this simpler line.

2 FIELD STRUCTURE

- “Primary combat sport” — what they mainly train or compete in.
- Options: MMA, Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu / Grappling, Boxing, Muay Thai, Kickboxing, Wrestling, Judo, Taekwondo, Other.
- Remove “Primary Art / Style” in its current form.
- Replace it with “Training background” (optional multi-select).
- Training background options: BJJ / Grappling, Wrestling, Boxing, Muay Thai, Kickboxing, Judo, Karate, Taekwondo, Other.

3 SKILL LEVEL LOGIC

- For BJJ / Judo: belt level.
- For MMA / Boxing / Muay Thai / Kickboxing: Beginner, Intermediate, Advanced, Amateur Competitor, Professional.
- For Wrestling: Beginner, Intermediate, Advanced, Competitive.
- The skill-level field should adapt based on the selected primary combat sport.

CHANGE NEEDED: Simplify the page intro and make the form sport-context specific. Remove the current ‘Primary Art / Style’ overlap and replace it with an optional multi-select ‘Training Background’ field.
